

Scala4 is a mainframe specialized company dedicated to the Nordic market. Founded in 2010, Scala4 has a broad set of IT services, divided into IT Development and Life Cycle Management. These services were designed to assist companies throughout the lifetime of their software solutions, by improving and extending their internal capacity for migrating, developing, testing, maintaining and supporting such solutions.

Transform your business with tools and technologies that increase your agility

Scala4 Migration services is a comprehensive set of planning, management and execution services that can be employed to help you manage your platform modernization initiative. Using those services you are investing in your business growth and improving your rate of return.

Accelerate development and modernization projects by 40%

Scala4 recommends the use of automated tools to boost application efficiency and flexibility as well as accelerate optimization activities and ongoing maintenance.

Testing is a skill. While this may come as a surprise to some people, it is a simple fact

Scala4 is equipped with near-shore testing centers with the infrastructure and capability to leverage and remotely execute performance, security and usability testing projects with significant price advantages that result in substantial cost benefits.

If you have the code, the vision and the time to discuss your needs, contact us

We believe that legacy systems, can still perform a useful role in your business even if they were written 20 years ago. We believe in the phrase "If it works, why change it", although we do understand that at times it is necessary to maintain and update legacy software when the need arises.

Sets a new standard for productivity

Increasing employees' productivity is a key component in growing company revenue. Management can take several steps to help increase productivity for the long-term. When a company takes the time to understand and implement the factors that improve productivity in the workplace, it is making a positive investment in the organization's future.

How do we do it?

- Skilled and experienced teams that work from our Centres of Excellence in Portugal
- Staff with advanced IT education and training, proven technical expertise and experience in international working environments, which allows that specific IT needs are easily transferred into our Centres of Excellence
- Despite the nearshore physical location, Scala4's teams are fully integrated in our client's projects
- Work as extensions of the project teams, driven by high productivity, efficiency and superior quality standards
